

CROPS.

OF THE COM-
AGRICULTURE.

East Farm—A Rich Harvest
Husbandry—Cotton, Corn,
The General Outlook and What is to Be.

Henderson's July crop reported to-day. The Constitution secured advance sheets, from which a review of the condition of the crops has been made. The commissioner states in reference to the cotton crop that while the season has been remarkably favorable for all other crops, it has been very unpropitious for cotton. The cool weather, in early spring, impaired the stand and retarded the growth of the plant, rendering it, in different sections, from one to two weeks late. The recent excessive and continued rains have induced a succulent growth of weed and a tendency of root growth to the surface; two conditions which will cause serious injury if any considerable drouth succeeds the wet spell. Compared to an average, the crop of the state is reported at 85; in north Georgia it is 87; in middle Georgia, 94; in southwest Georgia, 94; in east Georgia, 93, and in southeast Georgia, 101. The prospect is now, to the casual observer, very flattering, owing to the rapid growth of weed, but this may prove a disaster before the crop matures. The weather has been very favorable to the propagation of the caterpillar.

which is reported in several counties in this state, Alabama, Texas and Mississippi. Experienced planters will understand the rapidity with which these destroyers propagate when they make their appearance at this season, especially when the plants are in tender and succulent condition as it is at present, all over the cotton states. The prudent planter will, therefore, prepare to avail himself of every practicable means of destroying the pests soon as they appear in force. The crop is now at a most critical stage; much will depend upon the weather during the next few weeks. The indications now point to a short crop all over the south. If this be the case, the price may compensate for the shortness of the crop. At present it is impossible to forecast what the crop will be.

THE CORN CROP.
The corn crop of the state is, indeed, of the whole south, is extraordinarily fine. This following the fine small grain crops harvested this season, causes a buoyancy among the farmers beyond that of any year within the last decade. The crop is now generally made, and on uplands is as good, where properly cultivated, as the lands are capable of making. Bottom lands, except where well drained, have suffered from excess of rain. The crop in the whole state is 20 per cent above an average. In north Georgia it is 116; in middle Georgia, 122; in southwest Georgia, 118; in east Georgia, 125; and in southeast Georgia, 118.

FIELD PEAS.
This important crop is receiving unusual attention this year. The area is large and the prospect good in every section of the state. Compared with an average, the crop of the state is reported at 108; in north Georgia, 108; in middle Georgia, 110; in southwest Georgia, 106; in east Georgia, 105, and in southeast Georgia, 108. It is gratifying to report a large area of the stubble land from which the small grain crop was harvested planted in peas. This is a step in the right direction, as the supply of vegetable matter which the vines will return to the soil will not only enable the planter to dispense with the purchase of ammonia for the crops which will occupy these fields next year, but the vines will supply mineral plant food in available form, materially improve the mechanical condition of the soil, and increase its capacity for absorbing and retaining moisture.

SWEET POTATOES.
This valuable crop has received the attention it is now receiving. The area is large and the prospect good in every section of the
state. Compared with an average, the crop
of the state is reported at 108; in north Georgia, 108; in middle Georgia, 110; in southwest Georgia, 106; in east Georgia, 105, and in
report a large area of the stubble land from
direction, as the supply of vegetable matter
capacity for absorbing and retaining moisture.

THE SUGAR CANE.
The sugar cane crop of the state is, indeed, of the whole south, is extraordinarily fine. This following the fine small grain crops harvested
last decade. The crop is now generally made,
and on uplands is as good, where properly
cultivated, as the lands are capable of making. Bottom lands, except where well drain-
crop in the whole state is 20 per cent above
middle Georgia, 122; in southwest Georgia, 118; in east Georgia, 125; and in southeast
Georgia, 118.

POISONING COTTON WORMS.
Commissioner Henderson has the following in reference to cotton worm poisoning: "In the supplemental crop report of last year (circular No. 23), Captain Warner's recipe for preparing poison for the destruction of the cotton caterpillar was given. Experiments with poison prepared by this recipe show that less than 150 gallons of water should be added instead of 40 gallons to prevent it from destroying the plants. The recipe should read as follows: Prussic, 25 ozs.; glue, 1/2 ozs.; bycarb soda, 3 ozs.; and water, 3 gallons; boil half an hour and add enough water to make 100 gallons."

A Tribute to Major John F. Kiser.
TUSCALOOSA, Ala., August 7, 1882.—Editors Constitution: THE CONSTITUTION of August 1, 1882, brought to me the sad intelligence of the death of Major John F. Kiser, and I wish to bear this willing tribute to his memory.

As his commanding officer for nearly four years, during the late conflict between the states, I had ample opportunity to know and appreciate him. As a man I always found him true to every interest of honor and uprightness, and I loved him as a friend.

As a soldier, he was cool, calm, and brave, ever ready for any duty, and no matter where or when—in the bivouac or on the march, or in the deadly conflict where death reaped his harvest from the best and bravest, he illustrated southern chivalry.

From the first Massachusetts with its glories, Appomattox with its gloom, he was always at the post of duty and he was eminently worthy to be counted among the faithful few who alung to the "lost cause" until it went down amid the tears of the people he loved so well and served so faithfully.

His epitaph may appropriately be: "Fried, trustworthy and true."

Farewell, my beloved friend, my honored comrade, and may the turf rest lightly on thy grave heart.

To his sorrowing wife and family, I tender my deepest sympathy. Respectfully yours, Geo. T. ANDERSON.

Gas Leak at Rich's.

I take pleasure in informing my friends that I am now permanently located at the well known dry goods house of M. Rich &

CITY NEWS.

The Regular Record of Current Local Events—Continued.

at all kinds.
Yesterday was a warm cloudy day.
The police are having a quiet time.
Cotton is coming into the city daily.
The merchants are having a big trade.
There was a picnic at Ponce de Leon yesterday.

Sam Thomas was wanted by the police for larceny.
Travel is increasing, and the railroad men are happy.
Real estate sales have been quiet for the past two weeks.

Alabama street will be completed within the next two weeks.

Captain Bagby yesterday arrested two persons who are supposed to be members of the burglar gang now infesting the city.

For rent—a large store on Whitehall street that is well suited for a wholesale business.
Clayton & Webb.

Messrs. Langston, Crane & Co. yesterday received a consignment of corn from Nacoochee valley. It is old corn, and shows that there is some Georgia raised among us. Next year there will be plenty of Georgia raised corn, not only in Nacoochee valley, but all over the state.

Rome Express.

On next Monday the Western and Atlantic railroad and Rome will commence running a through train between Atlanta and Rome to be called the Rome express. The engine and cars will run through without change in quick time. The train will leave Atlanta at 5:25 p.m. and arrive in Atlanta at 9:50 a.m. A through coach between Atlanta and Rome will also be run on the train leaving Atlanta at 7 a.m. and arriving in Atlanta at 8:40 p.m.

Stealing Furniture.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. P. H. Snook received quite a large invoice of goods which were unloaded at the Walton street entrance, where they were allowed to stay until late in the evening, when they were removed inside of the store. When the goods were being moved it was ascertained that a fine rocking chair, valued at thirty-five dollars, had been stolen from the sidewalk during the day.

A Card.

ATLANTA, August 9, 1882.—Editors Constitution: In your issue of yesterday, in giving a history of the Atlanta pulpit before the war, and of the ministers who then occupied them, you say: "Of these clergymen but one, Rev. A. G. Thomas, of the Christian church, is still in service. The Rev.
J. L. Rogers is living in the retirement of old age." In this statement you are mistaken. I have not yet reached the venerable age you suppose, nor have I ceased from the regular and active duties of the ministry, having now, as for years past, the pastoral charge of two churches. Respectfully, yours, etc., J. L. ROGERS.

A Bad Darkey.

Late yesterday evening a negro man entered Beck, Gregg & Co.'s hardware store on Pryor street and asked to be shown some knives. While examining the cutlery the darkey slipped a box of knives into his pocket, but was detected in the act by the clerk upon him and who commanded him to disgorge. The command the darkey disobeyed, and made for the door, where he was met by a clerk who attempted to stop him, but a knife in the hands of the thief was buried in the clerk's arm, and then the darkey gained the street. The cries of "stop him," soon attracted the attention of Officers Pounds and Holland, who chased the fugitive up Decatur street to Peachtree, where he was captured by Mr. Henry Beer-mann, but not until he had again used his knife. The wound received by Mr. Beer-mann is in the left arm and is a deep one.
At the station house the captive was identified as Floyd Harris, who was released from the chain gang last Saturday.

A GRAVE CHARGE.

A Young White Man Locked Up in the Calaboose Under Suspicion.
Among the entries on the state docket at police headquarters yesterday was one of an assault with intent to rape. The prisoner is a young white man about twenty-five years of age, and is a printer by trade. His arrest was due to a warrant sworn out by the father of a young lady who resides on Williams street, and who is the daughter of a prominent citizen.
It seems from the statement of the complainants that the prisoner has been boarding on Williams street and that the young lady has been an inmate of the same house.
For the past few days the young lady has been sick in bed and yesterday the prisoner as to give rise to the charge. The young lady is about twenty years of age, and is the daughter of a prominent citizen.

LIVELY STREET POLITICS.

Jim Banks and Pike Hill Wrestling Over a Political Dog Biter.
Passing along we saw a crowd on the corner of Marietta and Peachtree streets, and sundering up to the same we found Colonel D. P.
Hill, James Banks and others engaged in a fighting over a dog biter. The dog was a candidate for governor, and Banks, having Stevens had always been an independent when it suited him, and the colonel asserting that when Stevens was independent the dog had always shown sagacity, and time had showed it that his refusal to support Greeley was wise, and the democratic party now regarded his (Greeley's) candidacy one of the follies and blunders in the history of Banks on the other hand, contending that, as Greeley was the nominee, Stevens was a party man bound to support him, and his disaffection then set an example of which he could not denial of democratic preference. Greeley to the sage of Liberty Hall. Whereupon Colonel Hill reminded Banks of the dog story, which runs as follows: While Gray's army, numbering twenty or thirty thousand, was camping near Tennessee, in passing a humble country house a little black fox dog ran out into the road, and to the amusement of the boys in gray barked and spluttered around their heels, whereupon a good, motherly old lady sallied forth from her cottage, and, addressing the dog, she exclaimed: "Here Trip, here Trip; come here—don't bite the army." Now, James, I beg of you, don't bite the democratic army. Banks rallied and said he'd bite any army that didn't move in order, or any officer that struggled by the wayside when he should be in line of the army, whereupon Colonel Hill good humoredly remarked:
"Well, Jim, when the election is over and Stevens has been elected, and he feels good and happy, and he calls up all the boys to eat dem good things out of that camp skillet he been totin' dese many years, you fellows be standing away fur looking solemn and hungry." Aaleck says, "You look say, 'You dick skiller, for you is dese fellows who bite de army.'" Whereupon a big laugh ensued, and all left for home in a good humor.

THE NORTHEASTERN ACCIDENT.

List of the Wounded—The Latest Details from the Scene of the Disaster.
The terrible accident which occurred Monday night on the Northeastern railroad was the theme for street talk yesterday, but during the day no particulars additional to those already published could be ascertained, ex-

Duty to Others.
CHAMBERSBURG, July 25, 1875.—This is to let the people know that I, Anna Maria Kridler, wife of Tobias Kridler, am now past seventy-four years of age. My health has been very bad for some years past. I was troubled with weakness, bad cough and dyspepsia, and could not do any of my household duties. I have only used three bottles, and I feel wonderfully good, well and strong again. My nerves are regular, my appetite good, and cough all gone. I feel so well that I think it my duty to let the people know, as so many knew how bad I was, while the medicine was doing me, so they can cure themselves with it.

IS HE INNOCENT?

A Convict Who Claims that He has Discovered Men
Who Should Wear His Stripes.

In March of last Humphrey Stocks was convicted of burglary in the superior court. He was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary, and is now serving out the sentence on the Marietta and North Georgia railroad. He claims that he committed the crime for which he is suffering, and accordingly asks pardon. Governor Colquitt will make a thorough investigation. Stock's letter to the governor is as follows:

Atlanta, Ga., July 10, 1882.—Honorable A.
H. Colquitt, Governor of Georgia—My Dear Sir: As there is something peculiar about my case, and as I am innocent of the crime for which I am sentenced, I have decided to state to you some of the facts that I have recently discovered. They are as follows: There are two men here under sentence who have boldly asserted in the presence of reliable men that they themselves committed the crime for which I am charged and say that they have been cognizant of the fact that I am innocent all the time. Their names are Harrison Daniels and Coleman Blackman.
This being the true state of affairs I have been concluded to call your attention to the matter, hoping and trusting that you will exercise executive clemency in my case as soon as you are satisfied of the truthfulness of what I have written, and of which can be sustained by affidavits of men who have heard them make the confession.
Hoping that you will consider this matter and let me hear from you soon, I have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant, HUMPHREY STOCKS.

COOK'S ACQUITTAL

The Scenes Attendant Upon the Announcement of the Action of the Jury.

In a letter received in this city from Major D. A. Cook, the following extract from the report of the jury in the case of the state vs. W. F. Cook, charged with the murder of D. J. Healy, chief train dispatcher on the International railroad, Taylor, on the night of the 11th of July, after being out forty minutes, returned with a verdict of not guilty. The jury was brought into court by a deputy sheriff and took their stand before the judge. The verdict was then read by the clerk by Hickory Jackson, the foreman, who in a firm and calm tone read as follows:
"The jury find the defendant, W. F. Cook, not guilty." The assent of the twelve jurors being taken to this, there was a shout from the assembled crowd which shook the old temple of justice from center to circumference. The sheriff and court were powerless to restore quiet and order, and for several minutes the greatest tumult and confusion prevailed. The shouts were communicated to the streets and the rousing cheers that came up from every nook and corner doubtless vindicated the defendant against the charge of the crime imputed to him. Never before in the history of the country was such interest manifested in any case as was here manifested by the good and law-abiding citizens. W. F.
Cook went forth from this place a vindicated man, both by the verdict of the jury and honest public sentiment. The argument of Captain A. S. Fisher was acknowledged by all to be one of the most masterly triumphs of legal skill and forensic eloquence.

The Fast Trains.

The Central railroad will soon have the new rolling stock which was ordered several weeks ago for the fast trains which are to be put on on the first of October. Three engines and three sets of cars—fifteen in all—will be used.
Each train will be made up of a combination express and mail car, a baggage car and three couaches, best sleepers being put on the train. announced yet what the schedule will be, but the trains will leave Atlanta on the arrival of one of the Western and Atlantic trains, which come in at the following hours: 8:40 p. m., 10:10 p. m., and 11:40 p. m. The Macon will be about three hours. The East Tennessee road will not put on a fast train to compete with this train. The fast train on the Georgia road will not interfere with the present schedules of that road, but will be run as an extra train, leaving the local business to the present trains, and aiming only at making a fast line to Charleston and the north or through passengers and mail. The southern route which comes by this route will make close connections at all points, and will reach Atlanta at about 12:30 p. m.

Decidedly a Good Thing.

We have examined a model now on exhibition at Mullin's marble yard, Broad street, and the simple plan whereby common windows can be made to give the value of any piece of property because of its ornamental effect. Windows may now be left open these hot nights with perfect safety.
Call and see it.

The City Court.

In the city court yesterday George E. Hopkins was fined $500 costs for assault and battery. His offense was the cowardly of Dr. Gardner. The case of McBride & Co. vs.
Beckwith was postponed until the 17th. In the case of L. B. Fulsom vs. Continental national bank of New York, a petition to remove the case to the United States circuit court was denied. The court adjourned until Saturday.

IS HE INNOCENT?

Who Should Wear His Stripes.

penitentiary, and is now serving out the
railroad. He claims that he committed
the crime for which he is suffering, and accordingly asks pardon. Governor Colquitt
letter to the governor is as follows:

Atlanta, Ga., July 10, 1882.—Honorable A.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

At the expiration of Alderman Beermann's term of office, the south side of the railroad will have no immediate representative in the aldermanic board, as there are two of the ones holding over from the north side. Justice demands that Alderman Beermann's successor should be from the south side of Atlanta and they present the name of that old, tried public spirited citizen, Major John H.
Meanslin, as a suitable man to fill the place and one that will be supported by the whole people of Atlanta.
